SYDNEYSIDERS TO GET A TASTE OF KING ISLAND

Devotees of fine food, wine and cheeses will take their taste buds on a culinary journey across King Island on Saturday 9th March when a decadent outdoor dining experience inspired by the produce and cheeses of the Tasmanian island comes to Sydney for one night only.

Proudly presented by King Island Dairy and held across a number of breathtaking locations at The Australian National Maritime Museum, the menu offers a feast that includes King Island beef, locally caught cold deep sea fish and crustaceans, fruits and berries and a bounty of King Island Dairy's cheeses.

“King Island has a unique environment with rich soils that helps to create some of the best produce in Australia, said Renee Tsironis, Senior Brand Manager King Island Dairy.

“The indulgent experience we’re creating here in Sydney provides the culinary context for people to enjoy King Island Dairy’s premium quality cheeses.

“It will be a feast for the senses and a wonderful opportunity for Sydneysiders to enjoy a taste of King Island,” she added.

Guests will enjoy canapés on The Endeavour followed by a spectacular five course long table dinner on the outdoor terrace with full city skyline and harbour views. Each course will be matched with some of Australia’s finest wines.

The harbour side venue was chosen for its affinity with King Island’s stunning maritime landmarks including the 48m lighthouse at Cape Wickham and the tall ships which circumnavigated the island in 1791, leading to the discovery of the most geographically remote island in the Bass Strait.

The menu, which has been specially designed to highlight the best produce of King Island, will include two brand new cheeses, the first releases in seven years.

With just 150 places available for the unique evening experience, tickets are expected to sell out rapidly. Priced at $110 per head for the five course degustation dinner including wine, the King Island Long Luxe Dinner is a one-night only event, commencing at 7pm for a 7:30pm seating. Tickets are strictly limited and can be purchased here.

About King Island

King Island is the most remote island in Bass Strait. The pristine coastal environment and wind-swept grass on which 9,000 dairy cows graze create the rich, sweet milk that gives King Island Dairy products a unique taste and texture.
